

Mr Rahul Nath's publications

Nath R, Mant C, Luxton JC, Hughes GRV, Raju KS, Shepherd PS, Cason J. Systemic lupus erythematosus patients are at high-risk of developing human papillomavirus type-16 infections and of developing cervical intraepithelial neoplasia. Arthritis Rheum. 2007 May 15;57(4):619-25

Nath R, Mant C, Kell B, Cason J and Bible J. Analyses of variant human papillomavirus type-16 E5 proteins for their ability to induce mitogenesis of murine fibroblasts. Cancer Cell Int. 2006 Aug 9;6(1):19

Luxton JC, Nath R, Derias N, Herbert A, Shepherd PS. Human papillomavirus type 16-specific T cell responses and their association with recurrence of cervical disease following treatment. J Gen Virol. 2003;84(5):1063-1070

Luxton JC, Mant C, Greenwood B, Nath R, Shepherd PS, Cason P. HPV 16 E6 oncogene variants in women with cervical intraepithelial neoplasia. J Med Virol. 2000;60(3):337-341

El Shawarby SA, Nath R, Goodman J. How competent are Obstetric and Gynaecology trainees at managing maternal cardiac arrests? Another view on training issues from the South Thames. J Obstet Gynaecol. 2007 Jan;27(1):119-20

Valayatham V, Rao S, Nath R, Raju S, Maxwell D, Oteng-Ntim E. A case of placenta percreta with bladder involvement managed conservatively. J Obstet Gynaecol. 2005; 25(4):397-8

Papadopoulos A, Devaja O, Nath R, Willbanks GD, Raju KS. Surgery for Recurrent Cervical Carcinoma. Obstetrics and Gynaecology Communications. 2000; 2(6):17-27